1. Background

V.M. Salgaocar College of Law started the “Legal Aid Society, V.M. Salgaocar College of Law” with a strong desire to serve the society dually, by providing free legal assistance to the general public as well as by producing competent and socially sensitive legal professionals.

A unique feature of the society is expression of its social concern through its legal aid activity. The underlying ideology is that a legal professional cannot live in ivory towers, but should not only see and sense social realities but also direct his or her activities towards rectifying injustice in society. To execute this theme, the College has established a unique method of permanent legal aid cells. The legal aid cells are housed in Panchayat buildings, schools, churches or temple premises of the rural areas. Out of the 40 permanent legal aid cells in remote rural and poor localities of Goa, 37 are active which includes the Mobile legal aid cell and the Cyber legal aid cell. Mobile legal aid cell goes to different places to educate villagers on various legal and social issues. The cyber legal aid cell provides online legal assistance to the needy.

The legal aid cells work towards improving law-seeking behaviour among the local populace. With the association of the Sarpanch and other Panch members, students ensure attendance of the villagers at the Gram Sabhas by visiting every house and making them understand the importance of Grama Sabha. They note the proceedings of the Gram Sabha and share them with the Sarpanches to enable them to follow up on resolutions taken and action items planned. The cells also work in close coordination with the NGOs and participate in activities meant to advance the welfare of the community. The various organizations and institutions with whom the legal aid cell interacts are Panchayat, Schools, Municipalities, Govt departments, NGOs (CRG, Bailancho Saad), Clubs- Junior Chamber, Rotary, Lion’s club, Villagers/ Community, Religious institutions, Orphanages, Legal professionals, Mahila Mandal, Mamledar, State Commission for Women, Directorate of Social Welfare, Rural Development Association (RDA), Police stations

Legal aid cells can play a key role in effective prosecution and conviction of crimes against women and children. However, the reach of the cells has not been effective because of lack of awareness about its services among the community. The demand for seeking justice is also low owing to lack of awareness on human, gender and child rights as well as procedure for seeking justice. It has been felt from the work done since 1998 that unless the community is totally involved and becomes a key stakeholder in the interventions, there is lack of desired momentum. Further, rural people, especially women and youth need to be mobilised to come out from their isolation and voice out their problems.

Between July and August, 2006, V.M. Salgaocar College of Law implemented an intervention with support from UNIFEM to strengthen the legal aid cells by mobilising greater participation of students and improved linkage with the community. The Project took an integrated approach to combat sex tourism and human trafficking and to reduce vulnerability of women and children to exploitation and violation in Goa.

V.M. Salgaocar College of Law targeted using culture based approach for such interventions shifting from its previous approach of door- to door campaign in order to make its reach more effective. With the objective of reaching out to the community and creating a bridge between the community and the legal aid cells, V.M. Salgaocar College of Law assigned the task of community participation and mobilisation in seeking justice to banglanatak dot com. [banglanatak dot com](http://banglanatak dot com) specializing in designing and implementing social communication projects using theatre based methodology was assigned the task of designing and conducting workshops with the students of V.M. Salgaocar College of Law to build their capacity in community mobilisation, social communication and skills in theatre based communication and also facilitating the community level workshops.

2. Objectives

- Improve demand for justice by creating awareness using street theatre shows on services offered by legal aid cells among vulnerable segments like poor women, youth and children so that they come forward for redress by availing of free legal aid services.
- Strengthen legal aid cells for better delivery of justice through improved linkage with Police, legal professionals, Panchayat, support services like Child line, NGO/ Governmental agencies working for reducing vulnerabilities of women and children.
- Make the legal aid cells 'community-participated' involving people from different sections of society, like village leaders, youth, members of Mahila Mandals, members of self help groups, grass root level workers of Government as well as Non Government sectors and neighbouring community in the area.

3. Project Activities

Student Orientation Workshops:

400 students of V.M. Salgaocar College of Law were oriented on the Project, its rationale, social communication using edu-tainment (education through entertainment) and mobilising community participation and behaviour change.

Community Workshops:

40 community level workshops were held for linking community and legal aid cells, covering 37 legal aid cells across Goa.

Street Theatre Shows:

400 street theatre shows for raising awareness on the services of legal aid cell and crimes against women and children, along with services like 1098, 1091 etc. were staged by the students of V.M. Salgaocar College of Law.

4. Orientation Workshops

The students of Honours and the Degree courses of V.M. Salgaocar College of Law run the legal aid cells in various parts of Goa. Each legal aid cell is catered to by a mixed group of students from different academic years. There is one cell- in- charge for each cell and about 8- 10 students per legal aid cell. All the students needed to be oriented on the approach of linking community to the cells for better participation, more demand for justice and thus improved functioning of the cells.

10 orientation workshops were held where the students were made aware of VAW, Paedophilia, 1098, 1091, Women and Child Protection Cells, Children's Court and existence and service of the various sections of the community like the Anganwadi workers, the Self help groups. Theatre games were used to develop the communication skills of the students preparing them for more effective interaction at the grass root level. Various group discussion and role- playing sessions were conducted through which they explored ideas about better functioning and current drawbacks of their legal aid cells, and expressed their understandings on the issues of crimes against women and children.

Other than raising the awareness level, interactive sessions were conducted on how to plan for the workshop, where to hold it, what will be addressed in the workshops and how, whom to call, how, when, duration and the specific objectives of the workshops and also the street theatre shows. The various stakeholders who may be invited to participate in the workshop were identified as Panchayat members, Community leaders, Youth groups, Clubs, AWWs, SHG members, Mahila Mandal, Teachers, Members of faith based organizations.

The various issues that the Legal Aid Cell (LAC) members generally deal with are Ration Cards, Social welfare schemes (Senior citizen card, Schemes for BPL people, Health issues), Domestic violence/ Abuse, Dowry harassment, Prostitution, Complaints regarding public works, water, consumer disputes, etc, Land disputes, Distribution of property, Water, Garbage, environmental pollution, Sanitation problems. In dealing with various issues and handling cases the LAC members also face various constraints and barriers from the community. Some of them are:

- In case of seeking justice there is fear from family members, exploitation
- There is lack of faith in bureaucracy and judiciary; lack of trust in the judicial system- delay in delivering the decision; injustice
- Community has complete trust in the decisions made by the Panchayats or local heads
- Corruption, bribery at the govt level
- Lack of awareness about their own rights
- Financial inadequacy to follow up matters
- Indifference of concerned authorities towards poor
- Students perceived as not competent to handle matters
- People prefer services of qualified and experienced lawyers rather than the students
- People hesitate to repose faith in law students vis-à-vis important matters
- Expectations of speedy relief not met; cumbersome legal processes
- Lack of awareness about dispensation of legal aid by LACs.
- Lack of funds
- Children are scared of telling what has happened
- Issues are hidden in the family
- Poor not approaching LAC as they feel that it has no legal authority to resolve their problems.
- Poor people feel that law/ legal advice cannot solve their problem and they are mainly paper works.
- Poor feels that the best person who can solve their problem is govt. authority, agents of the ministers, or politicians or experienced advocate who can represent them in court.
- Poor Educational standard
- Political pressure leading to lack of evidence
- Illiteracy
- Ignorance- lack of awareness of various modes to obtain justice- Fast track courts, Consumer Forums, Cells
- Lack of awareness of the presence of an authority for redressal
- Lack of awareness on social problems
- Transport from remote places
- Lack of guidance
- Lethargy or inefficiency of government; disregard of the seriousness of issues and complaints by the authorities.
- LAC only provides free advice but people need money to go forward with the procedures of law
- Non- existence of legal aid services in certain remote areas. Most of the Cells are located in the areas along the coastal belt and very few in the interiors.

Report on improving Access to Legal Aid at Goa

- Local bodies reluctant to help depending on the powers/ status of the persons against whom the case/ issue is.
- Help does not reach the actual poor- BPL
- De motivation of LAC members
- Lack of awareness on legal bench- a panel of specialists who will give low cost legal service.
- Police does not support LAC. Linking police+ NGO+ LAC is required for better support- LAC here can provide legal counselling

Keeping the constraints and barriers in mind, through the various participative activities in the orientation workshops, students identified what needs to be addressed in the community level workshops for better functioning and greater support from the community.

- Communicating idea about collective justice
- Confidence building; that in some cases their names will not be disclosed
- Importance of Support from the community
- Person- to- person correspondence and contact
- Friendly approach
- Meeting, talking, conversing with people
- Speedy justice
- Literacy camps
- Free legal service
- Improving infrastructure
- A screening authority is required who can understand fictitious complaints.
- Visit of concerned officers at the Cell at least once in 2 weeks

In order to understand the level of awareness of the LAC members regarding women and child vulnerability issues, and various ways of combating such issues, group discussion and interactive sessions were held.

The following suggestions were made by the members of legal aid cells for making the cells active all seven days of the week (currently cells are active for 1-2 days in a week):

- Case/ Suggestions/ Question/ Complaint box. Delegate members of the cell staying nearby to keep a check on the complaint box regularly put up outside the Cell.
- Maintain registers through Panchayat members/ Gram Sevak. Panchayat office bearers can be requested to receive information on behalf of the Cell. In the register the villagers can come, write their names, problems, contact nos. or address so that the cell members can contact and know about how many people need legal assistance.
- Educate a person at the Panchayat on simple things like Affidavit, application, forums, etc.
- Engage Panchayat members in the absence of LAC member for (say) making identity cards. Panchayats can help in delivering these cards.
- Priests can also be involved.
- Phone nos. of cell members to be displayed on the notice boards, outside the Cells.
- Collaboration with the local groups like Anganwadi, teachers etc.
- Awareness campaigns of legal issues through posters, essays etc.
- Start cell website
- Residence of the members staying closest to the cell can be made a stand by.
- Cell can have collaboration with Youth clubs so that they can take over when the Cell is closed.
- Local resident of each ward to be persuaded to collect complaints from their respective wards. Students can collect this information from the wards on every Saturday and Sunday.
- Tie up with groups like Mahila Mandal, AWW, Panchayat members, school teachers etc. They can be empowered to support on three days.
- Any volunteer (youth, women, senior citizen, church etc) can assist the LAC members.
- Teachers of government primary Schools to inform about directing cases to us.
- In case of urgency they can contact us through Panchayat members.
- Placing help line nos. like Childline, Police, Ambulance, etc at the place of the LAC
- Make a booklet about all the phone nos. and addresses of main offices and Cell members
- Programmes on public holidays
- Identify one important person, social worker who can work along with the Cell member.
- Details about how to approach government offices may be put up outside cell or in the Panchayat.

- Identifying local support groups.
- Displaying objectives of the Cell written in local language.
- Dividing the Cell members into groups of 3 and catering to the needs of the people on the allotted days through out the week.
- Visit by the concerned professors to their allotted Cells at least once a week or once in two weeks to supervise.
- Design standard forms and keep these at the village level, at the Panchayat so that the people approaching with their grievances can note the same in these forms. In case of illiterate people the Panchayat staff can fill these forms for them.
- Training the school children for basic requirements, e.g registration etc.
- Phone numbers of college and also the Panchayat should be made available for contacting the students of the LAC
- If the area of LAC is too large, the meeting places can be shifted and that can be informed officially prior to the visit.
- Call X- students/ practising lawyers to visit the Cell periodically
- Public grievance Cells can be opened at the Panchayat level and an official position can be given to any member of the Cell to take the role of Public grievance officer who will be assisting the Panchayat secretary.
- A help line in college
- Tie up with the Lion's Club (already done by some LACs)
- Basic solutions on a notice board like for e.g. about ration cards- whom to contact.
- Linking 1098 with local level phone nos.

5. Community Workshops

40 one- day community workshops were organised and conducted by the legal aid cells. The legal aid cell members actively participated in the workshops held with the objective of linking community to the legal aid cells for greater demand for justice and improved functioning of the cells. Innovative techniques of theatre games, role- playing and story-telling were used in the workshop for ice- breaking and making it a participative process. banglanatak dot com team facilitated the workshops. The workshops were conducted in the villages where the legal aid cells function. People from different sections of the local community participated in the workshop including members of Mahila Mandal, Anganwadi workers, Councillors, Self Help Groups, Panchayat, Faith Based Organisations, Students, Teachers, Health workers, Community members, Police, NGOs etc. In each of the workshop, one Professor from V.M. Salgaocar College of Law was present to provide guidance and support to the students.

In the workshops, various theatre- based games were played for ice- breaking, knowing each other and also building the skills like group work, leadership, communication skills, etc. Mock sessions were held in the form of role- play where the community came to the legal aid cell members for seeking justice on women and child related issues and the legal aid cell members provided legal advice and solution. Story telling sessions were held to sensitise the participants on women and child vulnerability issues, paedophilia, trafficking. Case studies from real life situations were shared.

The outcome of the community linkage workshops were that the community members came to know about the legal aid cell and its services, about crimes like paedophilia and trafficking and became aware of their roles as key stakeholders in the community for forming an alert society. The participants said that they would make their village people, students, friends, and family members aware of such issues, crimes and also about free legal service available at their localities so that more people come and use these services. Many of the participants came up with real cases and problems exchanged phone numbers with the legal aid cell members for further follow up, etc. The participants felt that the workshop was fruitful because they came to know about the other members of the society as well and the very important role that they play. The workshop successfully addressed the need for linking Villagers, Police, Anganwadi Workers, Teachers, Mahila Mandal, Legal Aid Cell Members, Doctors and Panchayat who are the main stakeholders for forming a safe society and protecting the children and the women of the villages. Some Panchayats like Mandrem and Bastora expressed interest for supporting Childline number by linking it to their Panchayat office so that the members of the respective Panchayats can handle any emergency call to the Childline, without further delay.

Feedback from the community:

Steps to be taken to improve legal system in the area.

- Justice should be given to all sections of society and awareness about legal rights should be improved.

- Strengthening people's voice.
- Literacy level of people should be increased.
- Giving people courage to go to Police, Panchayat, Court.
- Lack of networking between Government Organizations and NGO.
- Amendments of certain laws and people should be aware of Laws.
- A victim to be treated with concern and not shame and system should be working promptly without unnecessary delay.
- Workshops to be conducted in local level to create more awareness regarding vulnerability of women and children among marginalized sections. More NGO's should come in. Mahila Mandal being an effective force can play an important role.
- Less political interference in putting accused to task.
- More Legal Aid Cells should be opened.
- People should come forward to help other, community should come together, be united, in combating abuse of women and children.
- Police took take immediate and stringent action. Fast and speedy trial of pending cases.
- Cases should be solved quickly and the accused to be punished severely.
- People should be alert and vigilant about the rights.
- Police, LAC, NGOs should work together. Regular meetings can be held with the members of Mahila Mandal, Panchayats.
- People who are victims of abuse are afraid to come forward, it is important for the LAC members to go to them personally and make them aware of the right to protest and eliminate fear, shame, and guilt factors from them.
- Community should be made aware of safe migration.
- Villagers should be alert in detecting problems of their neighbours and bring the same to the attention of law. Community should be observant and inform Police, Panchayat if any problem is sensed.
- People should have faith in the Government system.
- Teachers have a major role in reducing vulnerabilities. They can make children aware of the risks of mixing with unknown person, taking gifts regularly from strangers, and being close to unknown people. Parent -Teacher meeting is a good platform for making people aware of the rights and vulnerabilities of children and women.
- The members of the Legal Aid Cells should be more trained and more informed.
- More Legal Aid Cells should be opened.

Suggestions by participants on how to make LAC and Childline effective:

- Informing people about Legal Aid Cell, since people are not aware of its existence. Illiterate people to be sensitized, informed more.
- People who attended the workshop can play a vital role in informing others.
- Since, the Legal Aid Cell sits only one day a week, it would not be helpful if a postbox is kept outside the Cell, where the people can put in their suggestions, problems and the Cell can handle when they come to the Cell.
- Panchayat can also help in taking the legal cases of the people, and hand it over to the LAC members when they meet once a week. Panchayat thus can play a middle role between the Community and LAC. Some Panchayat like Mandrem, Bastora, Piligao even wanted to play a part in extension of Childline number and other helpline numbers.
- Some, Anganwadi workers believe that ICDS can also work in close association with LAC. Since the AWW are always in touch with community they have knowledge of the problems of people and people also share their personal problems with the AWW. The AWW can tell their problems to ICDS office who can inturn take suggestions from LAC.

- People should be more alert about unknown people coming into their localities and be more cooperative in informing authorities.
- Sensitisation should be done on Colleges, Universities, and Churches.
- Community members wanted to be volunteers for Childline.
- Help line numbers should be given to sufferers.
- Advertisement, Media campaign and street theatre awareness would help in making childline and LAC, more effective. Banners about Childline should be put up in the community.
- Interaction between LAC and community should be promoted.
- Laws are to be practiced as it is prescribed.

Cases that were cited by the community at the LAC- community linkage workshop:

- Rape of a minor Girl: Police complaint has to be registered. NGO help can also be taken. Since, the parents of the child is not willing to report the incident to the Police, the Legal Aid Cell members told the villagers to make her parents aware about the right to protest and overcome fear, shame, guilt factors. They also wanted to go to the child parents to make her aware of the rights.
- A boy 16 yrs old has raped girls 2 – 3 times: LAC members believe that counseling of the boy may be required and they can take help of NGOs like Sangath. LAC members feel that the boy is suffering from insecurity and need of the boy has to be known before taking the case further. Report to Police and Juvenile Justice Board can take the child into custody but it would not help the child in resurrection.
- A boy regularly harasses a girl: Community can talk with the parents of the boy as the parents might not be aware of what their child is doing. Then, if problem continues , they can report to the Police.
- A girl from Calangute was found dead in Old Goa. The girl was raped. People suspect that the girl is raped by her father.
- In Pernem area, a father sexually abused her daughter.
- In Pernem a girl whose were dead, leaving with her uncle fled from the house with a boy. She called Uncle after few days and said that she is in Dubai and is OK. But, Uncle is suspicious after hering her niece's voice and suspecting that she is not well: The LAC members gave emotional support to the man. They wanted to speak to the uncle and know about his expectation, what does he want to do.
- A case was cited where an MLA is luring a school- girl of the community to engage in prostituion. The community people are aware of it but they are not complaining for fear of political problems.
- A case was cited where a retarded deaf and dumb girl child is being sexually abused at home but since she cannot speak there is no evidence for it.
- A school- girl of sixth standard comes to school and sleeps. The theachers had been worried about her and when one of the teachers who was the participant in the workshop asked the girl why she sleeps in class, she said that her mother uses her for prostituion every night. So she feels sleepy during the day.
- A foreigner often used to come to a village in Pernem. He allured a girl of marriage, but she denied. When the person was talking with the girl , her uncle found drugs in the bike of the person, he was jailed.
- In Arpora area , there is a foreigner lady who suffers from AIDS. She still engages herself in multiple sexual relation.
- Many other cases came like Forgery, Breach of Contract, Property related matter, Ration Card Problem, BPL Card registration, Marriage related problem. Many social problems were also discussed like Garbage, Drainage, Noise pollution was discussed.

6. Street Theatre Shows

8 theatre groups performed 400 Street Theatre shows, each group comprising of 5 students. The theatre groups were Mandovi, Ganga, Jagruti, Kalpavruksha, Koshish, Kaveri, Udaan and Sparsh, each performing nearly 50 shows within a span of ten days. The theatre group members were identified based on talents of acting, singing, etc from the different academic years of Law. The participants actively volunteered to get trained in theatre- based campaign and take up the campaign for 10 full days. Forty three students were trained for six days. Theatre Workshop was taken by Biplanu Maita, Theatre Workshop Specialist, MA in Drama from Rabindra Bharati University.

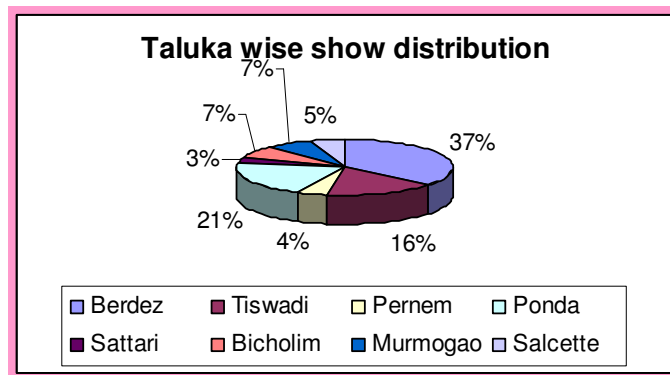

The theatre productions were not more than 15 minutes of duration followed by interactions with the audience. In the workshops for developing theatre productions the participants were trained in voice modulation, eye contact, body language, emotions, expressions, speech pattern and many other facets of performing a street theatre show. The students themselves formed the storylines and each story was unique addressing the same issues. The dialogues were then developed and the messages were imbibed in the play. Song and dance sequences were composed and used in the show for making it colourful and attractive. The participants were trained in interactive theatre where they interacted with the audience during and after the show to involve them and gauge their understanding.

The shows reached out to both educated and marginalized section of the society. The theatre shows were conducted in and around the Legal Aid Cells to make people of the services that Legal Aid Cell provides and also about the vulnerabilities of women and children and the support services like Childline number (1098), Women and Child Protection Cell (1091) and Police Number (100). Information on the addresses of the nearest Legal Aid Cell was also given. During the shows members of the local Legal Aid Cell was also present to answer queries from the community if any. The shows were conducted from 1st of August 2006 to 11th of August 2006. Street theatre shows covered all 37 legal aid cells covering 8 Talukas of Goa. The Talukas covered are Berdez, Ponda, Tiswadi, Pernem, Sattari, Bicholim in North Goa and Murmagao, Salcette in South Goa.

7. Observations

The local community now is more sensitised on their rights and available legal supports as well as about Child line (1098), Women and Child Protection Cell help line (1091). They have increased awareness on Legal Aid Cells and the services available. The legal aid cells are fully trained in involving community at large and they have an idea about creating linkage and partnerships with community based organizations, Panchayats etc and in leveraging their efforts with the strength of community participation. Through the workshops linkages have been established with Panchayat, NGOs, community based organizations, church, Anganwadi workers; community women from self help groups, students, teachers etc. In many of the legal aid cells community is reporting larger number of cases seeking legal support and advice. The students running the legal aid cells are trained in effective communication for public education and awareness using edutainment tools and they are equipped to sustain awareness campaigns in future. They have been enthused and have conducted extra shows in various locations on demand from the local community. The community feedbacks have been looked into and steps to improve functioning of legal aid cells are also being taken. The entire initiative will be carried forward to sustain the results of the Project in terms of community mobilisation and participation.

Protecting women, kids – the Salgaocar style!

A group of four students of Salgaocar College of Law perform a street play at a street corner

HERALD NEWS DESK

PANJIM, AUG 13

Street plays, workshops, seminars, personal visits, poster campaigns and the like have become powerful weapons in the armoury of the students of Salgaocar College of Law, Miramar to wage a war against crimes that are being committed against women and children – at times with complete immunity.

The battle for protection of women and children is an on going struggle. However, this struggle was intensified on the first of August, when over 40 different street plays were staged at some 400 odd locations all over Goa highlighting the vulnerability of women and children to sex tourism and trafficking.

The messages conveyed were robust and crisp. To say the least, the street plays kept the audience spellbound and awe struck!

The sheer number of locations, where the street plays were staged, speaks volumes about the intensity of the campaign. It also reveals the dedication and perseverance of those destructive winds nor the scorching Sun could deter them from carrying on the saga during the past 12 days – the sun concluded on Saturday.

The plays not only highlighted how gullible women and children are, but also explained how and why offenders could protect them. The plays also stressed on the need for both individual initiative and collective action – the key to any durable and successful enterprise – to accord complete protection to women and children.

Due credit needs to be given to United Nations Women Development Fund (UNIFEM) – the sponsor of this special campaign.

Salgaocar College's street plays

PANAJI : As part of the UNIFEM sponsored programme for improving access to legal aid and to reduce vulnerability of women and children to sex tourism and trafficking in Goa, the legal aid cell members of V M Salgaocar College of Law have been performing street plays in various parts of Goa since August 1. The plays deal with themes like right to provide citizens to seek legal aid, how to contact child line, help line, harassment or assault of women and maltreatment of children.
